

rarebooks.info

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Rarebooks.info and Gibson Library Connections Sign Partnership Agreement

November 14, 2006—Paris, France

Rarebooks.info, publisher of the electronic database www.rarebooks.info and Gibson Library Connections Inc. (www.gibsonlibraryconnections.ca) have just launched a new partnership through which Gibson Library Connections will serve as the exclusive agent for Rarebooks.fr products in Canada, Australia, and New Zealand.

Sandra Hindman, Director of International Operations of Rarebooks.fr, says, “Although we have many North American clients, Canadian libraries have been slow so far to take advantage of the institutional pricing for the site. I was very impressed with Gary Gibson’s intimate knowledge of the Canadian market and especially with his energy, enthusiasm, and wide experience with electronic databases. We look forward to the opportunities to better serve Canadian libraries and increase our number of subscribers in Canada through his efforts.”

A Publisher and distributor of digital content, Gibson Library Connections was founded by Gary Gibson in 2002 and is headquartered near Montreal, Quebec, Canada. The firm represents a select number of electronic publishers, providing Canadian libraries with a trusted local source for selection and acquisition of electronic content. GLC also represents some of those same publishers in Australia & New Zealand. As a publisher, GLC produces the Canadian Electronic Library. Gary says “academic research libraries in particular will find the Rarebooks.info database to be an extremely valuable resource, providing electronic access to over 80 individual electronic bibliographies through a powerful search interface.”

About Rarebooks.info

Rarebooks.info is an academic publisher of electronic databases. Founded in 2001, the company is privately held and is headquartered in Paris, France. Among its international partners are: Burioni (Italy), Thompson Henry (United Kingdom), PrioInfo (Scandinavia), and Nedbooks (Belgium, The Netherlands, and Luxembourg). In October 2006, CHOICE reviewed www.rarebooks.info and described it as “first rate” and “highly recommended.”

Media Contact

Adrienne Eaton

subscriptions@rarebooks.info or contact@rarebooks.info