Rarebooks.info has changed the way a librarian and dealer can use the bibliographical world. I was so impressed with their recent upgraded service that I chose to add a selected group of my copyright protected books to their system, making it the only site in the world where these modern bibliographies can be accessed and searched electronically. Those of us who carry our phones and tablets with us to shops and book fairs are one step up on our colleagues who can't access this important database of bibliographies.
